EDUCATION

1st Class BA (hons) in Drama from the University of Hull, with an emphasis on technical theatre and lighting design. I have a Post Graduate Certificate in the Management of Learning and Teaching (Goldsmiths College).

OTHER

To achieve a better work/life balance, I now teach lighting design alongside working as a freelance lighting designer. I work part time for the Theatre and Performance Department of Goldsmiths College, and also teach for other institutions including Rose Bruford, Central School of Speech and Drama, Guildhall School of Music and Drama, and Old Vic New Voices. My teaching work is flexible, and scheduled around work as a lighting designer.

I am the 2006 winner of the Michael Northern Bursary award from the Association of Lighting Designers, an award for showing 'exemplary talent in lighting design' and 'creative flair'. Examples of my work can be seen at www.chloekenward.com.

I have extensive experience working and independently travelling around the world. I have worked throughout Europe and North America, and in South Africa, Australia, Japan, South Korea, Iran, Singapore and Lebanon. I particularly enjoy working internationally.

Over the summer of 2014 my husband and I cycled 6030Km over 29 mountain ranges across America, coast-to-coast from Oregon to Virginia. I am an avid backpacker, and a keen mountain hiker, and have walked 250Km of the Lycian Way through the mountainous Turkish coast solo, reached Everest Base Camp, climbed various Himalayan Peaks, and walked solo through the notoriously tough Picos de Europa mountains in Spain. I have continued smiling through many ridiculous experiences on my travels, from getting stuck aged 19 in a war zone to finding myself hitchhiking from outside a uranium-enriching facility in the Iranian desert. Over multiple trips, I've spent nearly a year travelling throughout India over the last ten years. In 2015 and 2016, I was an original member of Crew For Calais, working with people from the theatre industry to build shelters in the Calais Refugee Camp. Other interests include photography, and long distance running.

I am a member of the Association of Lighting Designers, BECTU and the ABTT. Competent Eos programmer and Vectorworks Spotlight CAD plan drafting. Standard Disclosure CRB. Registered self-employed. British.
